

Mothering Adults...

We understand that you may feel as if the darkness is surrounding you. It may seem that you are buried under the crushing weight of struggles, expectations, and pain. We are asking you to see yourself as we do—not buried, but planted. And, like a worthy and hopeful seed, you are ready for a season of growth!

What if you were able to give your children the gift of them staying together, enjoying three meals a day together, having access to one another anytime they need to visit; and, the gift of community with peers in a safe environment? What if you could focus on your own wellbeing and growth, while knowing that your children's needs would be met, their beds would be soft, clean and safe, and each morning they would be greeted with a warm meal and sincere smiles?

If you are struggling with addiction and need someone to come alongside you, let us help. We can help you and your children find the good things you deserve and desire - no costs, no judgement, just help, peace, and safety.
